Mrs. J. M. Whitney told of the Sav-ings Bank project as follows:

When this society in the United States was first organized as the out-come of the Woman's Temperance States was first organized as the out-come of the Woman's Temperance Crusade, the general plan, naturally, was to do only temperance work upon Christian lines. But it did not take us long to learn that no reform can stand by itself. The forces of evil are so linked that it is impossible to secure the overthrow of one alone while soon the overthrow of one alone while soon, if that could be, its neighbors would crowd in and more than fill the broken ranks. So as the years passed, one department of our work after another was added until forty or more are listed upon the catalogue, each with a national superintendent, often with a corps of assistants and state and local superintendents everywhere.

After a time the work multiplied so upon our hands that there came to be much complaint and criticism that we were undertaking too much, that no ganization could carry on so many de-partments and that we ought to ceturn to our original simplicity and devote all of our energies to the one direct ef-fort to put down the drink traffic. At this crisis, Miss Willard, with her usual courage, said: "We will not, we cannot withdraw from any work we have undertaken;" and she wrote a small book called "Do Everything." in which she urged the women to take up without fear any line of work which can lead directly back. can lead directly back to the reforma-tion of men and women and promote purity and temperance and thrift.

edonomy, induce them to save their pennies and nickels, have a regular system by which weekly they may deposit whatever sum they may earn or save, which will soon be drawing a small interest, it can be readily seen that a long step toward prosperity has been taken and a great source of temptation removed. It is remarkable how many leading

It is remarkable how many leading educators have not only endorsed the plan, but are recommending and promoting the system of school savings banks in the schools under their care. France has this system in all her public schools, and the nation acknowledges its rich benefits. About 850 public schools in the United States are reported as employing it, and our commissioner of public education, Dr. W. T. Harris of Washington, has been aiding the work for six years by printing the records of the scholars' savings in his official reports. We have statistics for some twelve years of 800 public schools of the United States in which $5,000 school children have today over $400,000 on deposit. The system was taken up in Los Angeles in 1900 and up to Jan. 1, 1902, 6,510 scholars in the $2 schools had deposited $39,394.90 or over $6 each on an average. The scholars of Grass Valley Cal. but deposited $100. $6 each on an average. The scholars of Grass Valley, Cal., had deposited $400 in three months.

The superintendent of this department for the National Women's Chris-tian Temperance Union, Mrs. Oberholtser of Philadelphia, says in her last annual report:

"A number of the superintendents and principals of the public schools have written me that cigarette smok-ing in their schools has decreased 75 per cent since the children have been given this opportunity to save their pennies."

Advantages.

The greatest example of the people of a tropical city taking advantage of tleman was circulating them extensive-ly amongst his own people. In order to the surroundings to method the climate is at Rio de Janeiro. There many of the people live upon the hills, which are something like 1400 feet above the general level. But across the bay there is an elevated table land, something like 4000 feet up, where are located all the really fine residences of the city. There are dwellings which cost $190,000, the embassies and all the very best structures, in fact. The officials of Brazil live there and altogether it is the fashionable and aristocratic suburb of the capital.

Similar conditions will be found in Java, where the people of Batavia flock to the high lands during the summer, and it is history that in India every European that can get away goes into the hills when the dog days come around. With these examples I think the advantage of having such a mountain as Tantalus close to the city should be fully improved and there

"As to the Pacific Heights road, I believe it should be extended higher up the mountain side. Just above its present terminus are the forests, the great kukui trees and ferns, vegetation of every kind, in fact, and sites for cottages which would give free air to the occupants, all of which would go to make the most enjoyable suburb of the city, if there was any opportunity to get up and down without driving or walking. Then, too, there would be more building if only there might be cheap transportation for supplies.

over Lord Kitchener, who is the man recently many purchases of building of the hour throughout the British em-lots along the Tantalus ridge, and the pire, there is an element of dread of the inflexibility of purpose controlling him in military matters. This is espe-cially noticeable at the War Office. It is well known there that his opinion of the army organization is not flattering. and he has often expressed himself re-garding the average army officer in terms of undisguised commiseration.

This dread of him felt by the military organization is due to the refusal of Lord Kitchener to allow any political or partisan consideration to affect him in any military problem he may have to solve. Men of this type are not acceptable to the governing class in Britzenia. eptable to the governing class in Brit-in. Chamberlain in the civilian and Lord Kitchener in the military arena are most conspicuous illustrations. Both reach their ends by methods quite alarming to the bureaucracy and redtape regime.

Lord Kitchener is as truly needed to turn the British army organization in-side out as is Chamberlain to revolutionize the old Tory tactics. For this very reason, however, it is likely that some years must clapse before the hero of the Soudan and South Africa will be allowed to get much nearer London for

LYNCH ARRESTED.

LONDON, June 11.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, who fought with the Boers in South Africa and who, in November last, was elected to represent Galway in the House of Commons, was arrested this morning on his arrival at New Haven from Dieppe, France. Colonel Lynch, who was accompanied by his wife, was brought to London and was afterward taken to the Bow-street ponice station.

Subsequently Colonel Lynch was arraigned at the Bow-street police court on the charge of high treason, and was remanded until Saturday. June 14th, after formal evidence of his arrest had been presented. The prisoner, who was described in the charge sheet as a journalist, appeared unconcerned until the magistrate asked him if he had anything to say in answer to the charge. Then he arose and replied, almost in-audibly, "No, sir." He did not apply for bail, and was taken to his cell.
